

SHIP NEWS PLAN TO PLACE U. S. FIRST IN SEA TRADE

National Marine League Officials Will Discuss Opportunities for Wider Commerce

The opportunity of giving the American flag a commanding place on the seas of the world will be discussed this afternoon at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce arranged by the National Marine League of the United States. Addresses will be made by P. H. W. Ross, president of the league, and by A. B. Walsh, the league's business manager. Many of the biggest business men and concerns in the country hold membership in the league. William J. Conlen, chairman of the maritime committee of the Chamber of Commerce, will preside.

A mass of data bearing on shipping and the needs of shipping for American export business will be made available at the meeting today. League officials point out that gigantic opportunities in export trade now lie before American business men. A vast American merchant marine, they say, is a fundamental need in the taking advantage of these export trade possibilities.

GIRLS LEARN FIRST AID Classes Are Held for Hog Island Women Employes

First-aid courses for the girl employes of Hog Island are being conducted by Mrs. Anna C. Young, head of the girls' welfare department. The courses cover a period of ten weeks and include both theoretical and practical lessons in first-aid work. The young women attending the classes regularly will be eligible to take the American Red Cross first-aid examination. The classes for the shipyard girls are held every Thursday evening at the Navy Auxiliary, 231 South Eighteenth street, Philadelphia. The first class began last Thursday.

Plans for a Thanksgiving Day party were laid last night at a meeting of the Quinceanera Girls' Club, of Hog Island.

Classes in gymnastics and dancing for girls will be conducted every Wednesday evening at the Hog Island, M. C. A., following the basketball practice.

Miss Mary E. Runk, one of the pioneer women workers at Hog Island, has been named by the industrial division of the United States government to be in charge of the division.

The rivet carrying department of the Pullman and New Jersey has launched a drive to all girls teams in this country and elsewhere. The workers are to accept their champions against all-comers. Jack Hayes is the man who will be in charge of the challenge for the rivet carriers.

When it comes to luck, Jack Strobel, of the Harlan yard, has "lucky" Baldwin brand haddock and few, by instance, he landed seven or eight baskets of groceries in a carload of cargo at the Harlan fall for the right he won several prizes. That was an off night, which anybody is likely to have.

Hooking "Old John Law" cost Bill Hunkley of the Harlan yard "twenty-five cents." He tried to give a motorcycle "cop" the dust of his sea wagon, only to find out that his machine didn't have the kick he thought it possessed.

A Harlan yard humorist sent one of those "Make No Unnecessary Noise" signs to the "Century City" Hospital, which he had with a request that "How" Clausen hang it up as a suggestion for his boys.

Paul Diehl, an air hammer repairman of the Pusey & Jones Company, has won the commendation of his foreman for his industry.

"Need" would be a good reason for a "Kelling" Plan. It is a good work for the "Kelling" Plan for some fast work on the "Kelling" Plan.

Difficult to Pronounce

YOU may find it hard to say those three French words, but once you use this famous Baume, its effect is easy to remember.

BAUME ANALGESIQUE BENGUÉ

(Home An-est-ic-ant Ben-gue)

was originated in the laboratories of Dr. Jules Bengué, in Paris, a quarter of a century ago.

This original French product (although extensively imitated) is absolutely alone in its remarkable efficiency in relieving headaches, neuralgia, sciatica, rheumatism, colds and catarrhal affections of the nose and throat.

Clean, and easy to apply—the effect is delightfully soothing, healing and refreshing.

Keep a tube in the house.

ENTIRE CITY TO JOIN THANKSGIVING PLEA

Exercises to Be Held Simultaneously at Thirty-eight Points

Elaborate plans for a great community Thanksgiving service, celebrating the consummation of world peace, to be held in this city on the morning of Thanksgiving Day, are now being completed by the Philadelphia Council of National Defense.

The program of the exercises, which will take place in every part of the city at 10 o'clock, will be made public in the next two days. Robert D. Delo, executive secretary and director of the council, said yesterday no parades will be held. The arrangements are entirely in the hands of a committee, representing the council and headed by Joseph E. Widener. All churches will be asked to hold their services not earlier than 11 o'clock, so as not to interfere with the community celebration.

Following are thirty-eight points in the city where Philadelphia officials will be asked to gather for the exercises:

- Washington Monument, Twenty-fifth and Green streets.
- Liberty Statue, in front of South entrance to City Hall, South Penn Square.
- Logan Square, Nineteenth street and the Parkway.
- Rittenhouse Square, Eighteenth and Walnut streets.
- Jefferson Square, Nineteenth street and the Parkway.
- Franklin Square, Seventh and Vine streets.
- Pasayunk Square, Twelfth and Reed streets.
- Fairmount Park, Fourth street and Washington avenue.
- Millin Square, Sixth and Wolf streets.
- Wharton Square, Twenty-third and Wharton streets.
- Millin Field, Thirty-third and South streets.
- Woodland Avenue, Forty-third and Woodland avenues.
- Black Oak Park, Fifty-first and Pine streets.
- Marshall Park, Fifty-fifth street and Girard avenue.
- Durham Park, Forty-seventh street and Lancaster avenue.
- Fairmount Park, at Thirty-fourth street entrance.
- Athletic Park, Twenty-sixth and Jefferson streets.
- John E. Reburn Park, Twenty-second street and Lehigh avenue.
- General Square, Twentieth and York streets.
- Norris Square, Diamond and Hancock streets.
- Ontario Square, Thirteenth and Thompson streets.
- Westmoreland Square, Fifth street and Alhambra avenue.
- McPherson Square, Kensington and Indiana avenues.
- Belmont Square, Allegheny avenue and Belmont street.
- Penn Treaty Park, East Columbia avenue and Beach street.
- Harrogate Park, Tiosa street and Kensington avenue.
- Whitcomb Commons, Margaret and Tenth streets.
- Dixton Park, Keystone and Princeton streets.
- Cobb's Creek Park, Sixty-fourth and Race streets.
- Rehoboth Park, Hunting Park avenue and Old York road.
- Plant Park, Fifth and Spenser streets.
- Water Woods, Belvidere avenue near Water station.
- Yerford Park, Germantown and Chelton avenues.
- Clivedon Park, Clivedon and Chew streets.
- Waterford Park, Haines street and McMahon avenue.
- Windsor Park, Ridge avenue and Hermitage street.
- Perth Park, Wissahickon and Roberts avenues.
- Fairmount Park at Cresham Valley drive and Germantown avenue.

SHIP CAMOUFLAGE ENDS Futuristic Effects Will Give Way to Regular Colors

The splashy designs which for more than two years made all ships appear like demons of the deep will appear no more. One will now be able to tell that a ship is a ship, instead of a sea serpent on the rampage. It has been decided that all ships will now be painted in colors which are most becoming to them. The tint will be designated by the Government.

DREAMLAND ADVENTURES

By DADDY

"THE NIGHT FLYER"

(The Spirit of Safety transforms Peggy into a wisp of steam, and asks her to watch over Engineer Bill Curney of the Night Flyer, who goes on duty even though ill.)

CHAPTER II In the Engine Cab

NUMBER 337, declared by Engineer Bill Curney to be the fastest locomotive on the road, was snorting and chugging at the head of the Night Flyer as the Spirit of Safety rushed Peggy into the cab. The big steel steed seemed eager to be off on its swift flight to the sea. It had taken only a minute to uncouple the engine which had drawn the train thus far, and only another minute to couple on Number 337.

Engineer Bill was on the steps of the cab, leaning down to receive final instructions. These were being given by no less a person than the superintendent himself, which showed that they were very important.

"It's a shame to ask you to drive the Flyer tonight, Bill, when you are so sick that you ought to be in bed," the superintendent was saying, "but we haven't another man we can depend on to take the train on time. And she must be on time, because scores are depending absolutely on the train's reputation of never being late, and because we have a passenger on an important Government official who must sail for Europe early in the morning. You'll be doing Uncle Sam a service if you get him there, Bill."

"I'll get him there," answered Bill grimly, though his face was pale from his illness and his hand trembled a bit as he put on his goggles.

"We'll try it," said the superintendent in a low voice, nodding his head in the direction of the fireman on the opposite side of the cab, "but we depend on this trip was too important to take any chances."

"I understand," replied Bill. "The Night Flyer has got to get through on time and get through safely," repeated the superintendent. "I'm going along to look after the official."

Bill nodded and climbed a bit unsteadily into his seat at the side of the cab.

"See how much depends on your watchfulness," whispered the Spirit of Safety to Peggy, "you're on Uncle Sam's business tonight. You mustn't let harm come to Engineer Bill. Sit up there on the seat beside him and keep guard of him every minute. Good-by."

With that the Spirit of Safety darted out of the cab, leaving Peggy alone with her queer and unexpected job. And Peggy thought that it was a big job, for any child could see that Engineer Bill was a very sick man. As Peggy climbed up behind him, she wondered what she would do if he fainted or became delirious while the Night Flyer was rushing through the darkness.

Quickly she thought of Fred, the fireman. He might help. But she studied his face, she understood why the superintendent would not trust him with the train. There was something in his eyes that showed he could not be depended on. It was a reckless, defiant look. Just now there was anger there, too. He flung open the door of the firebox, shoveled coal upon the roaring blaze, and slammed the door shut. Then he turned to Engineer Bill.

"I'm getting sick of this job," he growled. "Here I've been firing a year, and I know enough to handle an engine, and yet rather than give me a chance they drag you from a sick bed to pull her through. It isn't fair."

"I was a fireman for two years before I ran a locomotive," answered Bill. "Then I served ten years on freights and ordinary passenger trains before I was given the Flyer. You'll get your chance when you've earned it."

"Let me drive her tonight," urged Fred. "You can rest on my side of the cab."

"This train has been given into my care," replied Bill. "I'll do my duty and take it through safely." But even as he said this, Peggy saw his hand tremble again.

Fred's face took on an evil darkness as Bill turned to look for the conductor's signal. Peggy felt that she must watch him as well as Bill.

"All aboard!" came a cry from down the row of Pullmans. Peggy, looking back, saw a green and white lantern waved. The colored porters gathered up their little steps and swung into the vestibules. Engineer Bill released the air brakes and gently pulled the throttle. Number 337 gave a grunting puff, there was a hiss of steam, another puff, and the Night Flyer was in motion. So smoothly did the long train start that Peggy could scarcely realize it was moving until she looked out of the cab and saw that they were slipping out of the station. Bill pulled the throttle a bit harder, and Number 337 roared instantaneously, dashing eagerly forward at steadily increasing speed, until they had left the flickering lights of the town behind them and were rushing out into the darkness of the country at sixty miles an hour.

"(Tomorrow will be told how Engineer Bill and Peggy get a scare.)"

Soft, Warm Velour Makes Many Winter Coats

It is adaptable to the styles that coats are taking this Winter, and while light and soft, it is not lacking in warmth.

Three Attractive Styles at $35 are all of velour. One has a semi-fitted back embroidered with silk crows feet and is full below the belt. The collar buttons high around the neck and it is full lined. Another, also with a semi-fitted back, embroidered with silk crows feet, is topped by a fur collar and full lined with plain color. The other style, which is sketched, has trimmings of kit coney fur.

$37.50 Brings a Good Style

Taupe, reindeer and navy velour is made in an unusual style, trimmed with self-covered buttons. The top collar is of sealene.

Many Fur-Collared Velour Coats are in attractive styles, priced from $45 to $37.50. They are in the rich, dark shades with collars of sealene or dyed or natural raccoon.

The Story of Dresses Is Told in Soft Satins

It's amazing how many different styles and colorings there are in these delightful frocks!

Prices Begin at $16.50

And there are about ten styles to choose from. Some have overskirts or accordion-pleated skirts, some are beaded or braided, and almost all have fresh touches of white in the form of a vestee, collar or the like. The style sketched boasts three panels ending in fringe and a vestee trimmed with glistening white satin.

Navy Blue Satin

At $18.75 there are two pretty frocks—one a surplice bodice ending in the back in a fringe-trimmed sash; the other with self-covered buttons and loops forming its only trimming.

At $19.75

Elaborate embroidered or braided-trimmed satin frocks are attractive. Some plainer styles also at this price.

A Down-filled Quilt for $6.50 Doesn't Happen Often

Particularly when it is covered with soft, closely woven saten in pretty patterns. The down was blown in less than a week ago, so these quilts are at their fluffiest and best. The stitching is well done and the covering will not allow the down to come through easily. In double-bed size.

There's Nothing Quite Like Real Lace

in the eyes of gentlewomen. Just now hand-made filet holds first place in favor. The collars are in many charming patterns and begin as low as $1.75 for a generous collar and go upwards to $4.25.

Extra Size Nightgowns at $1.65

And unusually good at this price! Of soft nainsook with neat embroidery around the neck and sleeves in a slip-over style cut plenty full.

SPECIAL Dress Satins, $2 Yard

These are of good weight and are in the best colors—navy blue, Copenhagen and black—and are 36 inches wide. 35-inch striped messaline and taffeta in pretty color combinations is good for Winter blouses and frocks. $2 yard.

Window Panels Special at $2.50 Each

Each panel, 40 inches wide and 2 1/2 yards long, is made of white marquisette in drawn-work designs with lace edging and insertion. Fresh and pretty.

Coats for Juniors

Heavy cheviot coating forms coats for girls of 15 years to 19. The large collars are of fur cloth and the belts have buckles in back.

Overcoat Weather Starts in Earnest Very Soon

A man doesn't have to look far ahead to see it, either. Winter is collecting his snows and winds and is going to hurl them any day now.

Good, warm overcoats of thick all-wool cheviot have been coming into the Men's Store on the Gallery at a great rate. The pockets are roomy and deep and the collars can be buttoned close under the chin.

All the good styles for men and young men at $25 to $35.

A Little Group at $19.50

is made up of Oxford mixtures in conservative box style with a fly front. They are in a medium weight and are special at this price.

Fine Gloves for Madame's Wearing

Gloves of white or black glace lambskin are neatly pique sewn and are embroidered on the back to give a contrast. One clasp fastens at the wrist. $1.75 a pair.

And for Street Wear

Gloves of washable tan, brown, gray or black capeskin are out-seam sewn and have one clasp. $2 a pair.

Silk and Merino Underwear for a Woman

Medium weight shirts and drawers of a kind that women want now and all through the Winter.

Shirts have high necks and long or elbow sleeves or low necks and elbow sleeves. Drawers are ankle or knee length.

$1.65 for regular sizes; $1.85 for extra sizes.

Sweater Days are Here!

Men who are outdoors much want a good thick sweater to keep them warm. Warm coat sweaters in navy, gray, maroon or brown have collars or plain necks. Special at $6.25.

Particularly Fine Skirts at a Saving

They are beautiful skirts, all of them—beautiful in style, material and finish. And from $5 to $10 can be saved on any one of them. Some of them are samples from a good manufacturer, others have been reduced from our own stocks.

They are beautiful soft velveteens, satins, crepes de chine, fine serges and wool velveteens. The velveteens and silks are mostly black, many with fringe trimming them, and made in unusual styles. The wools are in beautifully blended plaids or handsome striped effects, box pleated, accordion pleated or gathered. A satin skirt at $13.25 is sketched.

Prices are $13.25, $15 and $19.75.

Heavier Waists

Women wearing uniforms like the plain gray or blue cotton flannel waists and most everybody likes the gay candy stripes. All are strictly tailored and have collars that can be worn high or low. $2.25 and $2.50.

Navy blue waists of cotton serge are $2.75. These are all in sizes 36 to 48 and a few are in large sizes up to 50.

Cuddly Blanket Bathrobes for Boys and Girls

Warm, thick blanketing in light or dark figured combinations is well made into generous sized bathrobes with heavy cords about the waist and large pockets.

Sizes 2 years to 6 are $2.50; 8 years to 12, $3.25; and 14 years to 16, $4.

Girls' Frocks and Coats of Heavier Materials

Corduroy is quite a favorite for both dresses and coats. Frocks for girls of 8 years to 12 are made of dark brown or green corduroy. The pockets are prettily embroidered. $7.50.

Coats for girls of 10 years to 14 are also made of corduroy. The colors are brown, blue or green and the coats button on the sides and have high collars. $13.50.

1000 Pair of Women's Shoes in Three Styles at $4.75 a Pair

Dark tan calfskin shoes have tops of a lighter shade of leather much like buckskin and high or medium heels. Brown kidskin shoes with ivory kid tops have medium or high curved heels. Gray shoes of leather resembling buckskin have high-covered heels. All of these shoes lace high and have sturdy welted soles. Their lines are good and the vamps are long. It is a low price for such fashionable shoes.

Bits of Gaiety for the Thanksgiving Table

Plump turkeys to stick in the tops of ices or puddings are 10c a dozen.

Place cards are 10c for half a dozen.

Crepe paper with strutting turkeys is 20c a roll.

For the Thanksgiving evening supper there are lots of pretty things in paper—

—table covers at 50c.

—napkins at 40c a hundred.

—plates at 20c and 40c a dozen.

Eyes That See

will discover the pretty, personal gifts that give so much pleasure at Christmas. And, too, many helpful things for the home or to help revivify old frocks will be found scattered all over the Down Stairs Store.

Long runners for the piano or table and square scarfs of fine, deep velour or of gleaming wood-silk tapestry would delight beauty-loving home-keepers. They are in all the shades of full brown, green, garnet, dark blue, rose, etc., and in combinations of color. $1.75 to $4.50. (Chestnut.)

Kerchiefs for the kiddies to take to school are of sturdy white linen with little colored borders. They are special at 12 1/2c each. (Central.)

What more lovely than a set of furs? Ohs and ahs will greet such a gift! Among the natural rabbit at $12.50, natural cat-lynx at $25 and Japanese badger at $35. (Market.)

Pillow cases of fine cotton, prettily embroidered, are neatly boxed by a pair all ready to send off. $1.75 a pair. (Chestnut.)

How a pretty woman's heart would flutter joyously if, on opening her packages Christmas morning, she would find this bit of silk and lace in the form of a dainty matinee!

It is of pale pink crepe de chine edged all around with imitation flat lace. Hand embroidery of blue and pink silk trims the front, and, best of all, the matinee slips over the head! Special at $5. (Central.)

Turkish bath sets are attractively boxed and consist of a large towel, a guest towel and a wash cloth in pink or blue plaid. Such a set is acceptable at any time. $1.50. (Chestnut.)

Serviceable things are gifts of the gods, and people do appreciate them so much! For instance, how would you feel about receiving a pretty "nightie" of dainty yet sturdy pink crepe adorned with Copenhagen blue stitching? Well, apply it to your friends! $2. (Central.)

Reversible satin ribbons to adorn hats, frocks and lingerie are in innumerable contrasting colors! Plenty of black ribbons, turn their other side and, lo! it is gray, rose or blue, etc. And for the light gifts, lavender and pink combine in loveliness. 14c a yard, to 60c, according to width. (Central.)
